SATURDAY, DECEMBER 7, 1878.

U. S. SENATOR.

There is no matter of greater political concern to the people of South Carolina than the election of United States Senator to succeed Patterson. Heretofore our great interest lay within our own borders; dangers threatened us upon every hand, indeed the political life of our State rested poised in the balance and no man could tell what a day, even an hour might bring forth. Such a crisis and such circumstances demanded the best judgment, the firmest nerve and the highest order of talent to be found among our people. Gen. Wade Hampton came forth the man for the occasion. As Governor he has directed the ship of State safely through a stormy sea and to day finds her riding proudly and securely in smooth water.

The next greatest concern involves our relationship with the United States government. In the halls of Congress, during the next two years, the great battle is to be fought out of the issue of which is to come the future destiny of the South. On the Republican side will be arrayed their best leaders burning with a bitter religious hatred of the South, and especially of South Carolina, who will make every effort to regain the power they have lost, and once gained, the struggle and successes for the past two years go for nothing. The Northern Democracy sees the position and will, we hope, act wisely by preparing to meet the issue. The South is thus more deeply concerned and every sense of duty demands her best talent to defend and vindicate her rights in the council of the nation. South Carolina can send upon nobler contribution than Gen. Hampton, whose intellect is more than a match for Blaine and the magic of whose presence is worth a dozen first-class Senators. If Governor Hampton will accept the position we need him nowhere more than in the United States Senate.

LEGISLATURE.

The General Assembly very wisely agreed to do more work and less talking than heretofore practised by that body. By the report proceeding we find them hard at work—each member making it his business, while the committees are making every effort to dispose of all matters as rapidly as possible. Thus far they are keeping well up with the work although bills of every description are coming in by batches daily. The general desire pervading the members to expedite matters is very commendable, and if the entire session be characterized by the same diligence they will deserve the well-done of the people.

The Judiciary Committee reported favorably on Senator Gary's bill to disband the Bond Court. Upon this measure there is likely to be considerable discussion as the bill has many friends both in the Senate and House. Gen. Gary takes the ground, with some show of justice, that the Court is unconstitutional and the design of his bill is to destroy it before a decision is reached upon the matters submitted to it last summer.

On Tuesday President Jeter stated that a package of papers had reached him through the post office signed by certain citizens of Colleton County declaring that Hon. R. E. Fishburne is ineligible to his seat from that County. Objections were made to the irregular manner of presenting them to the Senate, but Mr. Fishburne, the charged Senator, desired them to be referred to the Committee on privileges and elections which was done.

The House Judiciary Committee reported favorably on the bill to abolish the divorce law.

The bill to punish assaults on the streets and country thoroughfares with a fine of not less than $200 nor more than $1000 and an imprisonment of not less than six months nor more than twelve, past triumphantly to a third reading.

The resolution by the House to adjourn sine die on the 23rd December has been concurred in by the Senate.

The Committee on agriculture reported favorably on the bill to prevent stock of one County or Township from trespassing on any other County or Township. This is virtually the farmers' fence law.

A joint session was held on Tuesday when Hon. T. B. Fraser of Sumter was elected Judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit for a term of four years, by the handsome vote of 144 out of 145.

In the Senate on Wednesday the Committee on privileges and election reported that they find nothing in the batch of papers received by President Jeter from Colleton, which in any way affects the tenure by which Senator Fishburne holds his seat.

The oath of office was administered to Gov. Hampton and Lieutenant Governor the General Assembly. The ceremony took place at the Governor's residence and was most impressive. The Governor maintaining a reclining position throughout the interview.

CONGRESS.

After the reading of President Hayes' Message before Congress, Wood, of New York, made a prompt and noble vindication of the South, and in the course of his speech said he regretted that the President could see violations of law in the elections in South Carolina and Louisiana, his eyes were closed to New York and other Northern States where thousands of voters were literally outraged.

Baine, Republican, introduced a resolution instructing the Judiciary Committee to make a thorough investigation into the late elections in the South and to report whether any additional legislation was necessary to enforce the laws or to protect citizens in the enjoyment and exercise of the franchise. This resolution the Republicans have determined to press for adoption after amending it so as to provide that the investigation shall be made by a special committee instead of the Judiciary.

The Democrats in caucus have determined with entire unanimity to take the position that the Baine resolution should be amended so as to refer to violations of laws and infringements of the right of suffrage in both Northern and Southern States. If it be thus amended they will vote for its adoption.

This is only a preparatory arrangement of the forces, soon the battle will be joined in earnest and its end will throw new light on our future destiny.
